

light in! Simply talk to Me and say, "Yes, Jesus, I want Your light and peace in my life and heart. Please take away my worries and fears and fill me with Your love."

That's all you have to do! Just take the first step, and I'll be there to meet you. In these trying times, I can't promise there will never be rough spots, but I can promise to get you through each one! If you put your trust in Me, I'll always come to your aid, no matter what the troubles may be. I'll give you peace of heart and a sound mind. I'll be your confidence.

If you put your trust in Me, I have wonderful things in store for you, and I'll see you through every storm of life to the bright tomorrow that is on the horizon. I promise you a better world to look forward to after this life—a world much like this one, only a lot better!—A world full of all the good things you enjoy now, yet free from fear, worry, harm and danger; a world full of good and no bad; a world where fear, worry and anxiety are replaced with peace, love, joy, harmony and eternal happiness!

If you want freedom from your worries and fears, hold Me to My promise! I long to replace your fear with faith, your anxiety with confidence, your sorrow with joy, and free you from death with eternal happiness! Try Me and see!

I love you.

Jesus

For more information:

Write to:

today, who can I trust? Things just aren't the way they used to be. Peace and safety seem to have escaped us."

With growing numbers of single moms and single dads, do you find "don't let it be me" is your ever-silent plea? After a long day's work you pick up Johnny from school, heaving a sigh of relief to see your little boy made it through one more day, safe and sound. You made it over that hurdle today, only to worry what will become of teenage Sue. You fear she's fast slipping away, but you just can't seem to communicate and you're afraid you'll never get through to her. Or maybe you're a young person yourself, afraid no one can possibly understand the frustration you feel; you're afraid no one will listen, no one will understand you.

Or you might be one who has occupational worries. When you lie down to sleep, do you worry whether you'll land that job you need, or keep the one you have? Will you be able to cope with ever-changing technology, new management styles, more dog-eat-dog competition—or will you get pushed out and left behind? Do you fear how you'll ever be able to make ends meet or take a vacation with all the medical expenses, taxes, kids' education, bills and more bills?

Maybe financial ills have not touched your life, but there's that lurking, uneasy feeling in the back of your mind—the silent fear of the unknown—as you ask, "Could I be hit by one of many killers not bound by age, time, or social standing?"—Cancer of this and cancer of that, of every shape and size; AIDS; this syndrome and that syndrome; new bacterial strains resistant to pills. When you're not feeling good, do you reach for a pill, only to worry if the prescription is right? Could it be too much—or too little? Toxins, pollutants—contamination!—Do they give you a scare and cause your anxiety to build?

Worried?

No matter what your walk of life—whether you come from affluent suburbia or from across the tracks on the lower east side of town, whether you're young or old, no matter what the color of your skin, or what road in life you're walking—chances are you have something in common with your fellow Americans: Somewhere, someplace, or sometime, you might find yourself feeling afraid. Maybe you don't admit it much, but if this description fits you, read on.

Do you ever stop and think how the world has changed in only one generation? You hear some folks say it's getting better, but you question, "If that's so, then why do I feel uneasy inside?" Maybe you'd rather not think about it, but then you turn on the six o'clock news or glance at the morning headlines, and there it is, glaring at you, hitting you in the face!—The events of September 11th cannot be forgotten, the inhumanity of man to man, violence and crime with no rhyme or reason. You fear, "Will I or a loved one be next?"

In recent years the growing threat of violence in your streets has been a point of concern. Gangs, rape, murder, child molesters, kids killing kids in school, drug dealers in rural neighborhoods, and now the threat of terrorism, anthrax, and killer viruses. All of a sudden you find yourself looking at your neighbors through different eyes. Trust? Where has it gone? You say, "It sounds nice, but with all the bizarre happenings taking place

Computers have put men in space and helped science advance for the better. Surfing the net may be changing your life, bringing convenience and broadened horizons. Yet on the other hand, do you fear what lies beyond those doors? Your privacy invaded—Big Brother! Does it cause you alarm?

Lawsuits, extortion, fraud, custody battles, harassment—the list goes on with a multitude of things you always thought would never touch your life. Yet you see it in the paper and you start to wonder, "Could this be me one day?"

Are you afraid to talk, afraid to reach out, afraid that no one will listen, afraid you'll be left all alone?—Afraid of showing emotion, afraid to care, afraid of being hurt, afraid to laugh, afraid to cry, afraid to live, afraid to die?

Perhaps some of the above is true in your life, or maybe there are other things that make you feel afraid. Whatever the case may be, I've got something for you. I understand the fears and worries that accompany these modern times, and I have the antidote!

If you feel the dark clouds of fear striking your heart and lingering in your mind, I can give you freedom. Freedom from fear is one of the greatest freedoms there is, and I've got it for you! As simple as it sounds, if you'll just call on Me, I'll replace your fears with peace of heart and mind, and with a love that will never fail.

If you think this sounds too good to be true, just try Me and see. You can talk to Me anywhere, any time, out loud or in your heart—any way you like! I invite you to open your heart to Me, I'll fill you with true love and freedom from the fears you find all around.

The best way to get rid of the darkness of fear is to let the

today, who can I trust? Things just aren't the way they used to be. Peace and safety seem to have escaped us."

With growing numbers of single moms and single dads, do you find "don't let it be me" is your ever-silent plea? After a long day's work you pick up Johnny from school, heaving a sigh of relief to see your little boy made it through one more day, safe and sound. You made it over that hurdle today, only to worry what will become of teenage Sue. You fear she's fast slipping away, but you just can't seem to communicate and you're afraid you'll never get through to her. Or maybe you're a young person yourself, afraid no one can possibly understand the frustration you feel; you're afraid no one will listen, no one will understand you.

Or you might be one who has occupational worries. When you lie down to sleep, do you worry whether you'll land that job you need, or keep the one you have? Will you be able to cope with ever-changing technology, new management styles, more dog-eat-dog competition—or will you get pushed out and left behind? Do you fear how you'll ever be able to make ends meet or take a vacation with all the medical expenses, taxes, kids' education, bills and more bills?

Maybe financial ills have not touched your life, but there's that lurking, uneasy feeling in the back of your mind—the silent fear of the unknown—as you ask, "Could I be hit by one of many killers not bound by age, time, or social standing?"—Cancer of this and cancer of that, of every shape and size; AIDS; this syndrome and that syndrome; new bacterial strains resistant to pills. When you're not feeling good, do you reach for a pill, only to worry if the prescription is right? Could it be too much—or too little? Toxins, pollutants—contamination!—Do they give you a scare and cause your anxiety to build?

light in! Simply talk to Me and say, "Yes, Jesus, I want Your light and peace in my life and heart. Please take away my worries and fears and fill me with Your love."

That's all you have to do! Just take the first step, and I'll be there to meet you. In these trying times, I can't promise there will never be rough spots, but I can promise to get you through each one! If you put your trust in Me, I'll always come to your aid, no matter what the troubles may be. I'll give you peace of heart and a sound mind. I'll be your confidence.

If you put your trust in Me, I have wonderful things in store for you, and I'll see you through every storm of life to the bright tomorrow that is on the horizon. I promise you a better world to look forward to after this life—a world much like this one, only a lot better!—A world full of all the good things you enjoy now, yet free from fear, worry, harm and danger; a world full of good and no bad; a world where fear, worry and anxiety are replaced with peace, love, joy, harmony and eternal happiness!

If you want freedom from your worries and fears, hold Me to My promise! I long to replace your fear with faith, your anxiety with confidence, your sorrow with joy, and free you from death with eternal happiness! Try Me and see!

I love you.
Jesus

For more information:

Write to:

Computers have put men in space and helped science advance for the better. Surfing the net may be changing your life, bringing convenience and broadened horizons. Yet on the other hand, do you fear what lies beyond those doors? Your privacy invaded—Big Brother! Does it cause you alarm?

Lawsuits, extortion, fraud, custody battles, harassment—the list goes on with a multitude of things you always thought would never touch your life. Yet you see it in the paper and you start to wonder, "Could this be me one day?"

Are you afraid to talk, afraid to reach out, afraid that no one will listen, afraid you'll be left all alone?—Afraid of showing emotion, afraid to care, afraid of being hurt, afraid to laugh, afraid to cry, afraid to live, afraid to die?

Perhaps some of the above is true in your life, or maybe there are other things that make you feel afraid. Whatever the case may be, I've got something for you. I understand the fears and worries that accompany these modern times, and I have the antidote!

If you feel the dark clouds of fear striking your heart and lingering in your mind, I can give you freedom. Freedom from fear is one of the greatest freedoms there is, and I've got it for you! As simple as it sounds, if you'll just call on Me, I'll replace your fears with peace of heart and mind, and with a love that will never fail.

If you think this sounds too good to be true, just try Me and see. You can talk to Me anywhere, any time, out loud or in your heart—any way you like! I invite you to open your heart to Me, I'll fill you with true love and freedom from the fears you find all around.

The best way to get rid of the darkness of fear is to let the

No matter what your walk of life—whether you come from affluent suburbia or from across the tracks on the lower east side of town, whether you're young or old, no matter what the color of your skin, or what road in life you're walking—chances are you have something in common with your fellow Americans: Somewhere, someplace, or sometime, you might find yourself feeling afraid. Maybe you don't admit it much, but if this description fits you, read on.

Do you ever stop and think how the world has changed in only one generation? You hear some folks say it's getting better, but you question, "If that's so, then why do I feel uneasy inside?" Maybe you'd rather not think about it, but then you turn on the six o'clock news or glance at the morning headlines, and there it is, glaring at you, hitting you in the face!—The events of September 11th cannot be forgotten, the inhumanity of man to man, violence and crime with no rhyme or reason. You fear, "Will I or a loved one be next?"

In recent years the growing threat of violence in your streets has been a point of concern. Gangs, rape, murder, child molesters, kids killing kids in school, drug dealers in rural neighborhoods, and now the threat of terrorism, anthrax, and killer viruses. All of a sudden you find yourself looking at your neighbors through different eyes. Trust? Where has it gone? You say, "It sounds nice, but with all the bizarre happenings taking place